By CHARLES MOLONY
WASHINGTON — (AP)—Money for home mortgage loans is vanishing across the nation—with a suddenness startling to builders and government officials alike.
Fear of a complete breakdown in new home building—smashing the dreams of potential buyers and threatening widespread unemployment among construction workers—was expressed at a meeting of building men here today.
Concern was shown too—although not so intensely—in government agencies dealing with the housing situation.
The swift, unexpected development was tied to price drops in the government bond market.
Builders explained the chain of events this way:
Before last March, life insurance companies, banks and other lenders found it easy and profitable to sell part of their huge holdings of government bonds to the Federal Reserve system and to re-lend the money on mort-

Loan Of Wheat To India Voted

WASHINGTON — (AP)—Shipment of 2,000,000 tons of U. S. grain to India on a long-time loan basis was approved yesterday by the Senate.
The House will take up a similar bill next Tuesday. The measure has been on and off the House schedule for almost a month. Administration leaders expect a hard fight but hope to get it through by a coalition of some Republicans and southern Democrats.
The Senate bill provides that the Economic Cooperation Administration (ECA) chief should try to get some vital defense materials—including manganese—in repayment for the food. Manganese is used in hardening steel.
Repayment of the $190,000,000 loan would be over a period of 33 to 35 years with interest of two and one-half per cent. There would be no payments on the principal for the first six or eight years.
The bill also provides that the interest paid by India on the loan in the first five years would be used to finance a program of technical assistance for India and an exchange of students, teachers and experts between the country and the U. S.
In asking Congress last February to answer India's plea for help to avert a famine in some areas, President Truman proposed that the grain—mostly wheat—should be an outright gift.

Heavy Calendar Is Tackled By Lansing House

LANSING—(AP)—With approval of a pension plan for judges behind it, the house turned its attention to the balance of a heavy calendar today.
Nearly 50 senate-approved measures remained to be disposed of this week. The list was headed by measures to insure at least one Republican member of the Public Service Commission, to advance the primary election in 1952 from September to June, and major revisions of Michigan Unemployment compensation and liquor legislation.
Filing Fees Increased
The pension plan weathered acrid debate to pass the house 66-26. It has already passed the senate, but must go back there for consideration of house amendments before going to the governor.
Judges of the Supreme, Circuit, Recorder and Grand Rapids Superior courts would be retired at $4,500 a year after 30 years' service. They could be retired involuntarily after 70 when they became unable to carry on their duties.
The system would be financed by contributions of five per cent of their salaries by the judges and a $2 increase in the present $4 filing fees in the courts.
Attempts were made to send the bill back to committee and to attach a referendum clause, submitting it to the people.
Rep. Lewis G. Christman (R-Ann Arbor) called the plan unnecessary for "the best paid public officials." He said they should be able to save for their old age out of their $9,000 to $18,000 salaries.
Rep. Louis C. Cramton (R-Lapeer), a former circuit judge, attacked the financing plan as "undignified." He was defeated in an attempt to permit the state to contribute money to the retirement fund.

War Heroes Get VIP Treatment

TOKYO—(AP)—The Army said today it is going to give the VIP (Very Important Person) treatment to any soldier who wins the Medal of Honor.
Any soldier awarded the highest honor the United States can give one of its fighting men was promised:
He will be flown here from Korea and housed in special quarters. He will receive a new uniform and meet General Matthew B. Ridgway, the supreme commander.
He will get a special pass to all clubs in the Tokyo area, plus the use of an army sedan.
Within 48 hours he—and his family if they are in Japan—will be ready to fly to the United States.
Only one living soldier has received the medal for bravery in Korea. He is M/Sgt. Ernest R. Kouma of Dwight, Neb., who returned to the States last week.
Kouma is scheduled for some very VIP treatment in Washington. He will get his Medal of Honor Saturday from the hands of President Truman. His parents and a brother will be present.

Families Marooned In Oklahoma Flood

(By The Associated Press)
Heavy rains over wide areas of Southwestern United States have flooded lowlands, marooned families and closed highways.
In northwestern Oklahoma, four days of torrential rains sent many creeks and rivers on a rampage. At least one school bus was trapped by flash flooding. Families living near Woodward and Clinton, Okla., were warned to leave their threatened homes.
Torrential rains also hit the Panhandle-south plains area of Texas, ending a long drought.

DACCAR, East Pakistan—(AP)—A total of 210 bodies have been recovered so far in Faridpur district, Bengal, ravaged last Saturday by a tornado which hurled men and cattle through the air and caused at least 1,000 casualties.
Most of the casualties were caused by flying pieces of iron roofs and falling debris, officials said.

Republicans Defeated In Efforts To Pierce Truman Iron Curtain

WASHINGTON — (AP)—Senate investigators upheld today the refusal of Gen. Omar N. Bradley to testify about President Truman's private talks with his advisers on firing Gen. Douglas MacArthur.
Senator McMahon (D-Conn.) said the vote was 18 to 8.
The action sustained a decision by Senator Russell (D-Ga.), chairman of the joint armed services and foreign relations committee, that Bradley had a right to keep silent on the talks.
Inquiry Held Up
Bradley declined on Tuesday to tell the committee, in response to questions by Senator Wiley (R-Wis.), what was said at a White House conference April 6 which led to the president's dismissal of MacArthur as Pacific commander on April 11.

Lying New York Racketeer Will Go To Prison

NEW YORK — (AP)—Numbers racketeer Louis Weber was convicted last night of lying to the U. S. Senate crime probe committee about his relations with James J. Moran, pal of former Mayor William O'Dwyer.

Weber, 51-year-old native of Puerto Rico, will be sentenced on the perjury conviction in federal court tomorrow.
He can get up to five years in prison and a $2,000 fine—the maximum imposed on Moran on the same charge.

The two perjury trials were the first prosecutions growing out of the Senate committee's sensational televised hearings here.
The cases hinged on the number of times Weber visited Moran at his office when Moran was first deputy fire commissioner from 1946 to 1950.

Moran swore to the committee that there were no more than six visits. Weber testified he didn't even know Moran. Government witnesses told of more than 100 visits.
Moran is appealing and free in $25,000 bail. Weber, free in $20,000 bail, also plans to appeal.

Casualties In Korea Increase To 65,523

WASHINGTON — (AP)—Announced U. S. casualties in Korea today reached 65,523, an increase of 1,468 since last week.
The total covers casualties reported to families through May 11, and includes 9,848 killed in action, 44,669 wounded and 11,006 missing.
Of the wounded, 1,163 later died. Also 101 of the missing are known dead. This raises the total of deaths to 11,112.

ALLIES PUSHED BACK IN KOREA—Chinese Communist troops recaptured Inje (1) and sent other heavy attacks against Allied lines all the way across Korea. On the central front, where Reds have reported massing heaviest forces, the Communists threw two heavy attacks against strongpoints east of Chuncheon (2) and forced several breakthroughs across the Pukhan River west of the city. Allied patrols fought a seven-hour battle with Red forces southwest of Kapyong (3) and then fell back. Two enemy attacks north and northwest of Seoul (4) were beaten back, but Allied commanders braced for a major Red push in that sector. (NEA Telephoto)

Congress May Balk As Agency Tightens Economic Controls

WASHINGTON — (AP)—The administration plowed on in the economic controls field today while keeping a weather eye cocked at storm clouds gathering over Capitol Hill.
With the present defense act due to expire June 30, and several congressmen declaring they'll balk at the broader control powers asked by President Truman, defense agencies:
1. Planned further cuts in production of 57 civilian goods, including passenger cars, starting July 1.
2. Ruled that retail prices of automobiles must be reduced May 22 to allow for the absence of spare tires and tubes as standard equipment.
3. Directed manufacturers of cotton yarns and textiles to compute new ceiling prices effective May 26.
4. Ordered a nationwide inquiry into reports of illegal livestock slaughtering.
5. Laid down a formula for figuring ceiling prices for soybeans at the farm level.
In the meantime, talk grew in Congress in favor of a mere extension of the present defense act—under which controls are authorized—instead of the broader powers Mr. Truman requested.
Hearings on these requests are being held by both the Senate and House banking committee but many legislators fear they might not be able to finish the job before the June 30 deadline.
Chairman Maybank (D-SC) of the Senate committee said yesterday the administration had better start thinking of a temporary extension or run the chance of not having any controls.
Three cabinet members had been pushing the administration's viewpoints in the committee hearings.
Secretary of Agriculture Brannan told the Senate group the controversial beef price rollback ordered recently by the Office of Price Stabilization would not "jeopardize" production" as industry spokesmen had contended.
Secretary of Commerce Sawyer cautioned the House committee the United States is scraping bottom on some important defense materials, including copper and zinc.

Detroit Jeweler Slain In Ambush

DETROIT—(AP)—A government witness against two Chicago jewelers in a $12,000 stolen film case was shot and killed from ambush early today.
Albert Swartz, 43, Detroit jeweler, was killed in his garage by an assailant who had lain in wait for him.
Swartz was the second witness in the case who was shot. The other is recovering.
In Chicago Robert Downing, assistant district attorney, said Swartz, a defendant in the case, had pleaded guilty and had agreed to testify for the government against Kenneth C. Gordon and Kenneth McLeod, Chicago jewelers, who were indicted with Swartz in the case.
Trial of Gordon and McLeod originally had been set for May 14 before Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe in Chicago. Because of a crowded calendar, the case was continued to June 11.
Swartz had $109 in cash in his pockets and there was no attempt at robbery, police said. Swartz also was wearing two expensive wrist watches.

Williams Vetoes 4.5-Cent Gas Trx

LANSING—(AP)—The senate today broke along strict party lines and overrode Governor Williams' veto of the bill raising Michigan's gasoline tax from three to four and one-half cents a gallon.
LANSING — (AP)—Governor Williams today vetoed the Republican legislature's pet bill to raise the state gasoline tax from three to four and one-half cents a gallon.
Williams told the legislature he vetoed the bill "because the highway program can be adequately financed for much less."
The governor released his veto earlier than expected, apparently on the theory that if the lawmakers sincerely wished to do something for the highways they would have time left to bring out a one-cent a gallon boost before they adjourn May 26.

Military Cuts Would Be Invitation To War By U. S., Says Truman

WASHINGTON — (AP)—President Truman today described as an "invitation-to-war" a proposal by Senator Taft (R-Ohio) to reduce the manpower goal of the armed forces by 500,000 men.
If Congress should permit the defense program to "get snarled up, or delayed, or slashed, we would be courting disaster," Mr. Truman said in a speech for the national conference on citizenship meeting at a local hotel.
The president denounced "pen-pushing" on foreign aid, and accused some of his opponents of "playing politics" at a time of "very real" danger of war with Russia.
He also called on the people to counter "special interest" lobbies by urging their congressmen to support higher taxes, and stronger price, rent and wage controls.

Allied Troops Plug Gap Made By Communists

Americans Slaughter Foe By Thousands

TOKYO—(AP)—Waves of attacking Chinese Reds failed today to break through the main United Nations defense line.
The Chinese smashed a hole in South Korean ranks and streamed through, but allied troops rushed up and plugged the gap by nightfall.
Waves of Chinese stormed U. S. positions. But every time the Americans were pushed off a hill they counterattacked to recapture the high ground.
The actions were along the East-Central front, hottest sector of the 75 mile wide battleground.

Pressure On Seoul
Field dispatches said 96,000 Chinese were attacking in the 25 mile length of the East-Central sector in the opening stages of an all-out Communist offensive.
Another 25,000 Reds were reported gathering strength on the Pukhan valley invasion route of the west central sector. Slithering Chinese had crept close to American lines at the junction of the Han and Pukhan rivers despite ceaseless aerial and artillery punishment.
Far to the west erupting attacks and mounting pressure threatened a major advance toward Seoul might be tried later.

Communists attacked relentlessly. U. N. planes, artillery and mine fields took a heavy toll.
"We are killing them by the thousands," a U. N. air officer said.
The U. S. Eighth Army estimated Communist casualties Wednesday at 3,582.

Detained In Spots
The Chinese breakthrough was south of Inje, north of the 38th parallel. Two South Korean divisions.

Mental Competency Is Only Issue Remaining In Norton Will Case

Only issue remaining in the John Norton will contest is that of Norton's mental competency at the time he made his will Jan. 5, 1950, it was admitted today by contestant's counsel in argument to the jury.

The admission brought previous rulings of Judge Glenn W. Jackson before the jury for the first time.

Issues of improper execution of the Norton will, undue influence, and fraud have been ruled out by the court, Atty. Wheaton L. Strom, of counsel for the contestants, advised the jury.

Contestants Failed

Atty. Strom told the jury the only question remaining in issue in the suit to break Norton's will is that of Norton's mental capacity. That is a matter of record, he said.

"We have failed on fraud and undue influence—and that's no secret," Atty. Strom said.

(The ruling of the court in response to a motion by counsel for proponents in defense of the will was made in the absence of the jury. It was not reported by the Escanaba Daily Press in deference to a request by the court that only information presented to the jury be published.)

Draws to Close

The Norton will contest hearing opened April 18, one month ago tomorrow.

It is now drawing to a close with arguments of counsel and is expected to go to the jury tomorrow following instructions to the jury by Judge Jackson.

Today the hearing continued with opening argument to the jury by Atty. Dennis McGinn, who with Atty. James Fitzharris is counsel for Atty. James E. Frost, proponent of the Norton will.

Atty. Strom, of counsel to Atty. Phillip Hadsell, of Niles, Mich., attorneys for Mack, Charles and Thomas Norton, contestants of the Norton will, are both presenting the contestants' arguments to the jury.

Represent "Community"

Each side is limited to a total of three hours argument. This morning Atty. McGinn spoke for slightly more than an hour, and will consume the remainder of his time in rebuttal.

In opening argument Atty. McGinn told the jury that he and Atty. Fitzharris were defending not only Atty. Frost but also the community, since Norton's will bequeathed the bulk of his estate to the Escanaba school district for scholarships for worthy high school graduates.

He said they also represented Norton, the man who made the will, and that it was now the responsibility of the jury to determine whether Norton had "the sacred right" to do what he desired with his property.

Reviews Testimony
Charging that claims of the contestants that undue influence and fraud were exercised on Mr. Norton were "character assassinations from the beginning," Atty. McGinn said that "not one iota of fraud or undue influence has been shown here."

He reviewed the testimony in the case and cited evidence to show that Norton was actively in control of his business affairs, participated in business of the Escanaba National Bank as a director, during the period before and after his will was made Jan. 5.

Atty. McGinn also pointed out that testimony by the contestants, including petitions of Mack and Charles Norton to have John Norton named administrator of their sister's estate, supported the defense that Norton was mentally capable.

Says Norton Understood

Further reviewing testimony, Atty. McGinn cited to the jury that those persons testifying in defense of the will had no selfish motives and had nothing to gain personally. Only direct beneficiaries of the scholarship fund will be young people of the community, some of them yet unborn.

Testimony of those seeking to break the will was pointed out as coming in part from parties to the suit who would directly benefit if the will be held to be invalid, Atty. McGinn said. One witness for the contestants, Frank Lindenthal, former Daily Press manager, was described by Atty. McGinn as "grasping."

Norton understood the accounting suit against Frank Lindenthal, and if Lindenthal believed Norton to be mentally incompetent, Atty. McGinn questioned why Lindenthal had tried to have Norton sign a contract settlement "worth at least $75,000."

Atty. McGinn also directed the attention of the jury to testimony that Mack Norton had sought to purchase the Daily Press from John Norton, although Mack objected to Norton's will and claimed his brother was mentally incompetent.

Lindenthal also sought to purchase the Daily Press for "the Press employees" but there "is no word of testimony that Lindenthal talked with the employees" about it, Atty. McGinn said.

"We are here to see that the will is upheld, to see that the money left in memory of Mrs. Norton for the education of young people be protected," Atty. McGinn told the jury.

He pointed out that "this is probably the first case in history that the estate of the deceased person had to pay the expenses of relatives to attend his funeral." This was in reference to testimony that expenses of Mr. and Mrs. Mack and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Norton were paid by the Daily Press to attend Norton's funeral at Escanaba.

Cites Editorial

Atty. McGinn also told the jury it was also the responsibility of the defense to keep the will intact and "leave Mr. Norton's money to the young people in the community where he made it, and not to Cassopolis," home of Norton's brothers.

Daily Press editorials of 1929, testified to as written in the "style" of John Norton, were referred to by Atty. McGinn. The editorial praised establishment of the H. W. Reade scholarship as "a fine example to follow," and Atty. McGinn told the jury this was its decision—"to give Mr. Norton the opportunity to follow that example."

Atty. Wheaton L. Strom in opening argument to the jury for contestants of the will directed attention to the ruling of the court that only the issue of mental capability remained.

Talk of "character assassination" was pointless, since elements of undue influence and fraud were no longer at issue, he said.

Medical Testimony

Atty. Strom directed the attention of the jury to three dates in the testimony presented—the dates of Dec. 2, 1949, Jan. 5, 1950, and Jan. 17, 1950.

On Dec. 2 Norton received a visual field test by a doctor at Mayo clinic, Rochester, who noted that Norton's responses were "those of a man afflicted with senile mental degeneration," Atty. Strom told the jury. Satisfactory responses in the test were expected from a child of seven, the doctor had testified.

This doctor had also testified that in his opinion Norton was unable to think clearly or concentrate for any length of time, Atty. Strom pointed out.

On Jan. 17, 1950, another physical examination at Rochester brought observations from doctors, to which they testified, that Norton had a "rather severe impairment of his mental functions." Also noted at that time was a "rather severe mental retardation."

The date of Jan. 5, 1950, on which the will was made, was discussed by Atty. Strom and Atty. Hadsell in argument before the jury this afternoon.

Was Mentally Competent

Last witnesses for the proponents in defense of the will were Charles Gessner of the Fair Store, and Juel Lee of the Birds Eye Veneer company, Escanaba, friends and associates of Norton for many years.

Both testified that in their opinion, based on the facts and testimony they had presented, Norton was mentally competent to make his will on Jan. 5, 1950.

They told of conversations with Norton at Rotary club meetings and elsewhere.

The testimony closed for the contestants of the will yesterday afternoon with the presentation of rebuttal witnesses.

For Impeachment

These witnesses were questioned for the purpose of impeaching testimony previously entered by witnesses in defense of the will, including Mrs. Eva Blaney, Wil-

50 YEARS ON ORE DOCKS—John Beck, 1117 Sheridan road, (left) completed 50 years of service on the Chicago and North Western railway ore docks this week, and received congratulations from Dock Agent Lee McMillan.

Beck began working for the railroad as an iron ore handler May 14, 1901 on old dock No. 3, which was located just south of the present Reiss coal dock. The foreman on the dock at that time was Mr. Woodstock and the general foreman was George Ramspeck. No. 3 dock had just two tracks, and the ore cars were of wooden construction with only 28-ton capacity as compared to 70-ton steel cars today.

Beck will be 71 years of age on Aug. 5, 1951 and has been sick only once in his life. He never misses a day at the ore docks where he is still employed as an iron ore handler. In all his 50 years of service he has lost only one day's work because of a personal injury.

Beck is a member of the Odd Fellows, North Star, Order of Runeberg and the Iron Ore Handlers local No. 400. He has three sons and three daughters. (Daily Press Photo) liam M. Layman, Miss Ellen Johnson, and Atty. James E. Frost.

Rebuttal witnesses were Mr. and Mrs. Mack Norton, Mrs. K. C. Pellow and Mrs. Esther Pearson. They offered testimony contradicting answers previously given by witnesses for the defense of the will.

In particular, Mrs. Mack Norton and Mrs. Pearson said they had seen Mrs. Eva Blaney, practical nurse and housekeeper, place Mr. Norton's hand under her chin "on several occasions" while she sat at his bedside during his last illness. Mrs. Blaney had denied any such action.

Was "For The Employees"

Mack Norton testified in rebuttal that most of the statements ascribed by William M. Layman, auditor, to John Norton had been made by Layman.

John Norton at a conference with Layman, Mack Norton and James G. Ward Jr., Daily Press general manager, in connection with a proposed sale of the Press, did not say that he wanted Ward to have 75 per cent and Mack Norton 25 per cent of the lease, Mack Norton testified.

Mack Norton said the proposed lease-option was "for the Press employees," and denied that John Norton wanted Ward and Mack Norton to control the lease. He repeated prior testimony that the lease should have included the names of four or five additional Daily Press employees.

Mack Norton also testified in rebuttal that John Norton wanted the pension-trust plan to continue for the Press employees under the proposed lease-option agreement drawn by Layman. John Norton died without seeing the proposal, and the court refused offers by proponents of the will to submit the proposed agreement in evidence.

Editorials—

No British Estate Is Worth The Price Of American Citizenship

THOUSANDS of American—yes, hundreds of thousands—have laid down their lives in defense of American liberty and the American heritage so it is not surprising that a couple of Yankees are not willing to trade their American citizenship for an English estate worth a quarter of a million dollars.

Salesman James Gape of Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, has inherited 1,000 acres of English land, two manor houses and some securities, the total worth about $250,000, but the sticker in the deal is that to benefit from the inheritance, it is necessary to become a permanent resident of England.

James has not yet announced his decision but his brother, Kenneth, who is next in line for the inheritance in case brother James refuses, is certain of his intentions. He will not trade his American rights for any British estate. The reasons that he gives are cause for reflection by all Americans.

"I don't want my children to grow up where there's no incentive for advancement and where they can have only one egg a week."

Britain is a socialized country, where the government has undertaken a welfare program from the cradle to the grave. Naturally, in such conditions individual initiative is destroyed. It's a glorified share-the-wealth program in which the indolent and the slacker get the breaks, but there is no true prosperity for anyone.

Unfortunately, there are many people in this country who are trying to force the United States into a similar pattern. Many of these proponents are in high governmental office. But the American people recognize that greatness in this country has developed because of individual initiative and free enterprise and they will fight to retain the fibers of American strength.

OAA Lien Law Is Common Sense

PROPOSERS of the welfare state have been working vigorously for repeal of Michigan's lien law under which the state can file claims against the estates of deceased old age assistance recipients.

After the so-called "lien law" was enacted several years ago, 6,000 persons voluntarily removed their names from the old age assistance rolls. The purpose of this act is to force children of aged people to support their parents or lose inheritances. It is a common sense law that in no way jeopardizes the welfare of the old people.

Surely if sons and daughters expect to inherit the estates of their parents, they should not expect the public to support the parents with welfare funds to preserve the full value of the estates. That is the crux of this whole controversy.

U. S. Plant Expansion Is Costly Business

IN seeking renewal of the Defense Production Act, which expires June 30, President Truman asked for authority to set up a new defense plant corporation. Such an agency would be empowered to undertake plant expansion deemed necessary by the government but not projected by private industry.

A high government official, Jesse Larson, head of the General Services Administration, strongly advises against this course. He is unusually qualified on the subject, since he headed the War Assets Administration after World War II, governing disposal of war plants financed and owned by the U. S.

Larson argues that a new defense plant set-up would exert heavy drain on the public purse. He says that plant disposal after World War II cost the taxpayers nearly $1,000,000,000 for administrative overhead alone, not counting the huge losses on the actual sales. At one time, 62,000 federal workers were devoted to this job. He sees no need for repeating this kind of performance.

Other dangers may lie in this proposed arrangement. It can't be forgotten that Mr. Truman more than once has recommended he be given this same authority when no defense emergency existed or was threatened.

Behind those earlier proposals was this theory:

That if in any particular field private enterprise is unable or unwilling to expand the government believes it should, then the government should step in and finance the expansion itself.

Offhand this may seem to be a pretty harmless notion. Actually it is loaded with dynamite. It means that, at the government's own discretion, it could enter into competition with industry. If you like labels, you could call it socialism.

The fact that some of the World War II plants were built by government has nothing to do with the case. In wartime, government inevitably takes unto itself many powers which in a democracy should reside with individual citizens and organizations.

Whether there's an emergency or not, a lot of industries undoubtedly are extremely conservative about adding plant facilities. Some were burned by over-expansion in earlier periods. Others are just cautious.

Where this foot-dragging can be shown by business and economic experts to be handicapping the general growth of the economy, it certainly must be countered by some kind of government effort. Financial aid and protection is one important prod. Steady pressure on the industry through public channels is another.

But these devices should not include government power to finance and build its own plants. The administration's obvious interest in exercising this authority in or out of crisis makes such a grant to risky for the free American economy.

Only the existence of actual large-scale war, in which time to apply the usual prods might by a luxury, would justify sweeping entry of the federal government into industrial plant expansion.

Managers Plight

By Gordon Martin

It's an old and honored custom that you have to cuss the ump, who is made of iron and well aware he has to take his lumps. But he's not the only guy around the noisy baseball parks, who must steel himself to disregard a lot of snide remarks. So we give you, then, the manager—a champ he would become, but today he is a genius and tomorrow he's a bum.

Let him pick a starting pitcher with a curve that's breaking quick, mowing down opposing batters who are helpless with the stick. Let him yank a feeble hitter for a slugger in the pinch, who delivers with a blow that makes the victory a cinch. Then they hail the brainy manager with loud and fond acclaim—he's a scholar and a gentleman always wins the game.

But just let his pitcher find the opposition mighty tough, as they hit him plenty hard because he hasn't got his stuff. Let his batter in the clutch be fanned, and comes an angry roar, and the manager, he gets the works, and everyone is sore. And he's got to stand and take it, though he likely is perplexed, that one day he is a genius but he's just a bum the next.

MARTIN

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—The American public has shown its ability to take the bad news along with the good and therefore has a right to know about our worst air disaster of the Korean war. So far the facts have not been released at the Pentagon.

Last month, however, 40 B-29 Superfortresses, escorted by jet fighters, bombed the international bridge connecting Sinuiju, North Korea, with Antung, Manchuria. The B-29s were hugging so close to the Manchurian border that one side was exposed and approximately 100 Russian MIG-15 jet fighters hit them from the exposed Manchurian side, breaking up the formation.

Two B-29s were shot down, a third was listed as missing but was seen crashing into the sea. Seven of the big Superfortresses had to crash-land in South Korea, while one more was badly damaged but made it back to the home base.

Despite this disastrous toll, the bridge wasn't even hit, and the mission was a complete failure. On the other hand, most of our bombing missions have been far more successful and the air force on the whole has done an amazing job. When our planes get close to the Manchurian border and Russian planes, however, the hazards increase.

DEAN "MAC" ACHESON

President Truman gave a small dinner party recently for Israel's visiting prime minister, David Ben Gurion, and during the evening commented on the prime minister's unusual name.

Ben Gurion explained to Mr. Truman that he had taken an old Jewish name, and that many Jews had changed their names after settling in Israel.

At the table was elder-statesman Congressman Charles Eaton of New Jersey, who, though a Republican, has been sympathetic to Secretary of State Acheson during the General MacArthur discussion. Turning to Acheson, Eaton remarked:

"Perhaps, Mr. Secretary, you should change your name to something beginning with 'Mac.'"

FRIENDSHIP GRAIN FOR INDIA

The Russians are playing the same kind of trick in India that they did in France—a trick which helped inspire the Friendship Train in the United States.

In India today, the Kremlin has suddenly announced that it is sending 50,000 tons of wheat to the Indian people; and as a result of this carefully timed move, Russia has monopolized the headlines and won thousands of new friends. Actually, Russia is selling the wheat, not giving it. In contrast, the United States has been selling wheat to India at the rate of 100,000 bushels per month for some time.

In a somewhat similar situation in France in 1947, Russia landed one shipload of wheat in Marseilles during the height of the French drought, and, thanks to a parade through the city, got reams of publicity and left the general impression that she was feeding the French people.

Actually, France had to pay for the Russian wheat in dollars, however. This incident helped give this writer the idea of having the American people collect food by means of the Friendship Train for the then hungry people of Western Europe, and showing motion pictures of the food collections and of the train in the theaters of Europe so Europeans could see that the food really came from the friendly American people.

Somewhat the same people-to-people movement is now taking place in regard to food for India. Thousands of college students and others have raised wheat which they are shipping through the Indian embassy in Washington. Meanwhile Senator Humphrey of Minnesota has worked out an arrangement with the American Red Cross whereby anyone can send cash to "Friendship Grain," care of the Red Cross, Washington, D. C., and it will be used for the purchase of food from government surpluses and shipped to India.

In other words, while Congress dilly-dallies, the American people, as usual, are way ahead of their legislators.

Into The Past

10 YEARS AGO

Grand Prairie, Texas—Fifty workmen built a four-room house in 57 minutes and 58 seconds today. Several thousand persons watched as two teams of 50 men each competed in a contest at Oviom village, a defense housing project for employees of the North American Aviation plant. The house was pre-fabricated.

Escanaba—Stuart Peterson, Escanaba high school senior class president, outstanding athlete and school leader, was named yesterday as one of 64 Michigan high school seniors receiving a scholarship to Michigan State college for 1951-52.

Gladstone—The state selective service headquarters today announced the following new appointments: Luce county, local board No. 1—John E. Quinlan, Newberry; Delta county, board No. 1—Hilding Grenberg, Gladstone, replacing A. J. Young, resigned.

20 YEARS AGO

Belize, British Honduras—Dr. Joselyn Van Tyne, assistant curator of birds at the University of Michigan museum of biology, was reported improved today after suffering a hemorrhage of the throat. Dr. Van Tyne was carried by Indians on a roughly made stretcher over rough mountain trails from Uxatsum, Guatemala, to Elcayo, British Honduras.

Escanaba—Miss Florence Langley, president, has been chosen delegate of the Escanaba Business and Professional Women's club at the annual meeting of the Michigan Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs which will be held in Marquette, Friday and Saturday.

Gladstone—Twenty-seven clubs are represented by delegates and associate members at the fourteenth annual district convention of the Federated Women's clubs of Upper Michigan which is being held in Escanaba and Gladstone, today and Thursday.

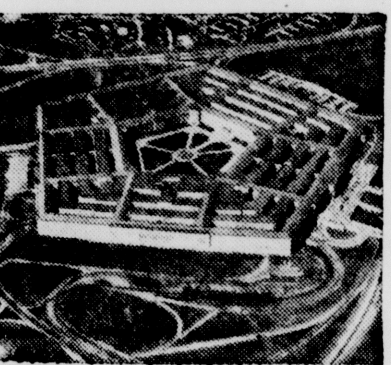

Manistique—A spring concert of great magnitude will be presented Friday evening at 8:15 p. m. at the high school auditorium by the first and second bands in which 65 young musicians will participate. The concert will be under the direction of Wayne Martin.

Administration Bucks These Issues

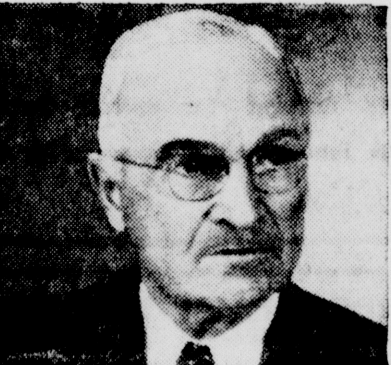

In three days of lengthy testimony before Senate committees, Gen. Douglas MacArthur presented a blueprint for strategy in the Far East that challenges the very roots of administration policy there. While sidestepping personalities insofar as possible, the general nevertheless personally challenged the actions of three top civilian officials, the President, the Secretary of State and the Secretary of Defense. Illustrated here are some of the highlights of the blueprint which MacArthur has laid out—a series of challenges which administration witnesses are endeavoring to answer.

"I believe the theater commander has the responsibility of registering his views as he might see fit, if they are honest views. . . . 'I hadn't the faintest idea (that I might be guilty of insubordination).'"

On Jan. 12, the general produced a document to show the Joint Chiefs of Staff generally agreed with his strategy. Their recommendations, MacArthur "assumed," were vetoed by Truman or Marshall.

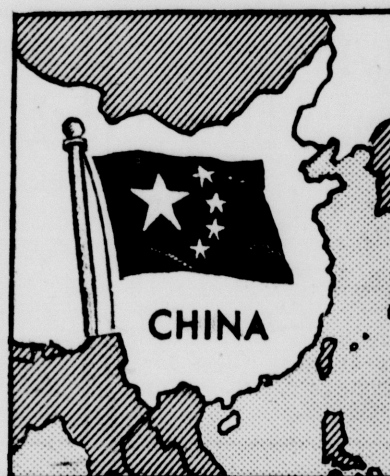

TRUMAN: The President's reasons for firing him "were not valid," says the general. "It was the judgment of one individual. The final judgment will be made by public opinion and the historical future. . . ."

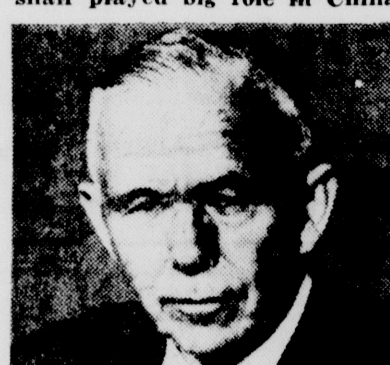

The bloody stalemate in Korea and its "slaughter" of Americans must be ended. The quickest way, MacArthur says, is to step up the war, bomb Manchuria, blockade China, and use Chiang Kai-shek's forces.

"There is no certainty that Russia will come in (if my strategy is followed). You have to take a certain degree of risk. . . . Communism everywhere is the main enemy, says MacArthur, not Soviet Russia."

"The greatest political mistake we made in a hundred years in the Pacific was in allowing the Communists to grow in power in China. . . . I believe we will pay for it for a century," Marshall played big role in China.

MARSHALL: MacArthur charges Marshall recently overruled the Joint Chiefs in agreeing to discuss giving up Formosa and a UN seat to China ending the Korean war.

"If we lose Formosa . . . we practically lose the Pacific Ocean. . . . I believe the Philippines and Japan both would be untenable. . . . 'I recommended to Washington that the wraps be taken off Chiang Kai-shek.'"

"My hope would be . . . that the United Nations would see the wisdom . . . of (my) course, but if they did not, I still believe that the interest of the United States would require our action. . . . Alone, if necessary."

"No more subordinate soldier has ever worn the American uniform." His basic belief: The enemy's action is "already under way. . . . If you don't meet it in Korea you are doomed to destruction."

ACHESON: The State Department's policy "seems to me to introduce a new concept into military operations—the concept of appeasement." MacArthur doesn't believe Acheson caused his ouster.

Good Evening . . .

COUNTRY CATALOG—The Escanaba Chamber of Commerce retail committee may take exception, but we must report in all honesty that a friend of ours in the county was caught leafing through his mail order catalog when we called on him recently.

"Just an old one from the neighbors," he mumbled sheepishly, pushing it under the sofa pillow.

We told him not to be ashamed about the matter, since we know some folks in town who had them too. They had less excuse than he did we pointed out, since they lacked the facility in which the old catalog is put to its traditional use.

THE WISH BOOK—The day of dependency upon the mail order catalog is gone. Yet its charm still lingers in the memory of older folks who recall the time when a trip to town on the farm wagon was an event, and a trip through a department store like a stroll through heaven.

In those days the catalog was the family "wish book," a bright package of dreams, filled with yard goods, lace curtains, cast iron stoves, drop seat underwear, victrolas, and toys and guns.

Mother spent her leisure moments admiring the many pages of stylish hats, and wondering if she could ever find the courage to order one of those waist-nipping corsets—whose ribs were almost as rigid as the sides of the cast iron stove.

Father browsed among the post hole diggers, harness, and hunting rifles, straying an occasional peek at the straw hats and peg top pants. What he wished was one thing, what he bought was another. Often he perused the "wish book" for pricing purposes, preparing arguments for the local merchants.

It has been a long time since retailers have heard a customer observe caustically: "It only cost $1.89 in the catalog!"

OF THE BIG CITY—Quite without knowing why, youngsters in the family spent some of their happiest hours reveling in the revealed luxury of the catalog.

Here was the big city store, right in their own home. Here was pictured a wealth of goods never before collected under one roof in any store.

Young boys touched the pictures of the sleighs and balls and bats, girls treasured the pages devoted to dolls and ribbons and party dresses.

And there were so many fascinating adult things to gaze upon—the high button shoes, hair switches, wheel chairs, watches, rings, and a thousand other articles.

FILLING THE NEED—Not so many years ago there was an active campaign among independent retailers to defeat the mail order and chain stores. Today the local merchant finds he can meet their competition. There is nothing like a satisfied customer—and a store in which the customer can do personal shopping.

It was not unusual during that period, as it is today, to find the defensive merchant making resentful remarks about those who "bought out of town." Changing times, better roads and transportation, brought the town closer to the country customer.

The mail order catalog filled a definite need, even as it does today for millions of people. It will exist so long as the need continues.

THE BIG ORDER—In every family, in an earlier day, "making out the order" was an event.

Family members, after poring over the catalog and conferring on the merits of the article to be ordered, gathered around the big table in the kitchen while mother or father filled out the order blank.

Sister often traded her dreams of a party dress for one of more serviceable wool, brother bid the sleigh a sorrowful farewell to accept six pairs of socks, and mother sighed while she leafed past the stylish hats and settled on the alternative—a new teakettle.

Thus did the mail order catalog bring dreams that never were fulfilled, what desires that could not be satisfied. And when the well-thumbed catalog was replaced with a new one, careful comparisons were made to determine if prices had gone up or down—and then the catalog went to its last resting place, there to be gazed upon for the last time before it performed its last utilitarian service.

Take My Word For It . . . Frank Colby Jr.

PRONUNCIATION CLINIC

La Jolla: The word buoy—it's BOO-ee to me. How come, Pancho, that we're hearing "boy" almost altogether. Because of the soap? It puts me in a lather.—C.

The word buoy has been in the English language for centuries; therefore, it is strange that a single pronunciation has never been established.

Noah Webster, in his original dictionary, listed buoy as "bwuy." Some of his contemporaries preferred the pronunciation "boy." Others showed the word as "bway."

Later, the customary American pronunciation became "BOO-ee," while "boy" prevailed in England, as it still does.

Today, American dictionaries list both "boy" and "BOO-ee," "boy" being the first choice of some, and "BOO-ee" being the first choice of others.

The same is true of the derivatives buoyancy and buoyant, some dictionaries favoring "BOY-un-see, BOY-unt," while others list "BOO-yun-see, BOO-yunt" as first choice.

And at least one dictionary—Webster's New International—is at cross purposes with itself. It lists the "boy" sound as first choice for buoy, and lists the "boo" sound as first choice for buoyancy and buoyant!

So much for the dictionaries. What we really want to know is: How is the word buoy pronounced by the American people? The answer is: Some say "boy," and others say "BOO-ee." Even among seafaring people both pronunciations are heard with about equal frequency. The older, however, seeming to prefer "BOO-ee," and the younger preferring "boy."

OPS Meeting Is Held Here

Manufactured Goods Order Explained

About twenty manufacturers of the district attended the meeting held at the Sherman hotel this morning under the sponsorship of the Office of Price Stabilization and the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce.

W. F. Benson, chief of the manufactured goods division of the OPS office at Grand Rapids, explained the provisions of general manufacturers' ceiling price regulation 22.

Regulation 22 is an order of the OPS setting ceiling prices for many manufactured products at a pre-Korean base plus actual increases in material costs through 1950 and increases in factory payroll costs through March 15, 1951.

Effective date of CPR 22 is May 28, 1951. Manufacturers must notify OPS by registered mail as to proposed ceiling prices higher than those under the general ceiling price regulation and must wait 15 days after OPS receives notification before selling at the new figures. Notification may be given to OPS before May 28.

According to the regulation, a manufacturer means a producer, processor, assembler, finisher, printer or fabricator. It does not mean anyone who merely packages, labels, markets or sells a commodity or combines commodities without substantially altering them.

Sister M. Sabena Celebrates Her Golden Jubilee

Sister M. Sabena, who has been in the Sisters of the Third Order of St. Francis for the past 50 years, celebrated her golden jubilee Sunday, May 13 at St. Francis hospital.

About 40 guests, including all of the Sisters from all orders in Escanaba, were present at the celebration Sunday afternoon with visitors from both Marquette and Menominee. They were entertained with a movie, "The Little Flower" after which lunch was served.

Sister Sabena left yesterday for the St. Francis Convent in Peoria, Ill., where several others will also celebrate their 50th anniversaries. The celebration began this morning at 9 with a solemn high mass.

Ice Breaker Mackinaw To Come July 1

Hugh Grow, secretary of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce, has received word that the big ice breaking cutter, U. S. S. Mackinaw, will come to Escanaba for an all-day stay on Sunday, July 1.

The Mackinaw is coming to Escanaba on the invitation of the Outdoor Writers Association of America, which is holding its national convention here June 30 to July 7.

The cutter will be open for inspection from 1 to 5 p. m., at the Escanaba municipal dock.

Notification of the coming of the Mackinaw was given by Capt. D. H. Dexter of the U. S. Coast Guard, who commands the cutter based at Cheboygan.

Final Allocation Of Millage Made

The Delta county tax allocation commission in recent meeting established final millage rates for townships and township school districts.

With one exception the rural school districts received an allocation of 7.5 mills and the township nothing.

The exception was Bark River township, which combines with Harris township in Menominee county as a school district. This district received a school allocation of 6.5 mills, similar to the Menominee millage for Harris township schools.

Bark River township was allocated 1 mill.

Make Garden Without Soil

Hydroponic Method Becomes Popular

Are you a 'wishful thinker' gardener. Or is there no space but 'up' for your dream garden? If such is the case, then you should know more about hydroponic gardening, sometimes called chemical or soilless gardening.

Professor E. A. Spessard of Hendrix College, Conway, Arkansas, formerly a teacher in the Marquette school system and who has also spent some time in Escanaba, has experimented with various formulas over a period of years and now has one packaged under his own name. Mrs. Helen Cloutier talked on the subject at the meeting of the Garden club at the junior high school Wednesday night.

Practised for a number of years in the Orient, this type of gardening has become popular with experimental laboratories throughout the country. It is gradually being tried by individuals who are interested in producing a lot from a little.

Little Space Needed
Chemical gardening may be carried on in very little space—in one basin or wire basket or pail, to larger containers inside coated with asphalt paint. It makes an ideal hobby for the apartment dweller or for anyone who hasn't much room or only has a small plot of unfertile ground—even a window box.

Whether it be vegetables or flowers, chemical gardening produces an abundance of whatever you're after. From the tiny seedling, which you may want to sprout yourself, to the producing plant, takes much less time than in ordinary dirt gardening. It has been proven that the fruit from such process is large, well developed, longer bearing and more uniform in size than its dirt nurtured brother.

First, find the seeds you want to try, sprinkle over a moist blotter, cover with another dampened blotter and cover with a dish. A temperature of 65 to 70 degrees is best for sprouting seeds. If they are moistened with a chemical mixture, they will grow fast and soon be ready to transplant.

Various Formulas

There are various formulas one may use in chemical gardening, some are packaged and some must be mixed. One that is used in experimental laboratories is:

Formula: To mix five gallons at a time use:

1 1/4 teaspoons monopotassium phosphate

4 teaspoons calcium nitrate

2 1/2 teaspoons magnesium sulphate

1 1/2 teaspoon ammonium sulphate

This is used as a basic formula.

Then there are two additions that can be made just before use of basic solution. They are: Stock solution 1, which consists of

1/2 gallon of water

1 teaspoon boric acid

1 teaspoon manganese sulphate

1 teaspoon zinc sulphate to each 5 gallons.

Use 2 teaspoonful of this to the basic solution just before using.

Stock solution 2, which consists of:

1/4 teaspoon of iron chloride or nitrate in

1 pint of water.

Use 4 teaspoons to each gallon of basic and add just before using.

Watering Hastens Growth

Watering with the chemical formula tends to hasten the growth of the seeds more quickly than water and within a week or ten days, the seedlings are ready to transplant into whatever you intend to use as permanent containers.

Sand, the ordinary white beach sand or "bird sand" as it is frequently called, or any quartz sand low in limestone works very well. The sand used must allow aeration of the roots and must retain enough of the moisture to assure rapid growth.

Excelsior is also sometimes used. Young plants may be placed in excelsior in wire baskets and the roots allowed to dip into the solution. In this way plenty of air is available for the plant root. If the plants are given wire supports, they may be planted as close as you like because the roots will take the food from the water. Allow room for only the foliage so that the plant gets sufficient sunlight.

You will be amazed at the rapid growth of your chemical garden, and will be pleased with the clean, uniform fruit that it produces. Try a climbing cucumber, or a trellised tomato in that unoccupied corner.

Barnett Freed In Health Case

Telling The Truth, Polygraph Reports

Logan Barnett, jr., 29, has been released from custody as a result of a polygraph examination conducted Wednesday afternoon at the Gladstone state police post by Sgt. Wilber Petermann, polygraph expert, Safety Director Glen Leonard has announced.

Barnett was held on a technical charge of driving an automobile with improper plates while police continued their investigation of the death of Mrs. Priscilla Heath, whose body was recovered from Bay de Noc, near the Escanaba municipal dock, Sunday morning. Barnett was the last person known to have been with Mrs. Heath before her disappearance about two a. m., Wednesday, May 9.

Williams Also Takes Test

Sgt. Petermann reported that the lie detector test indicated that Barnett was telling the truth when he reported that he could remember nothing from before two a. m., to five a. m., on May 9. Barnett was drinking excessively on Tuesday evening, he said, and "blacked out" before he left Club 41 with Mrs. Heath. Sgt. George Williams and Mrs. Edna Flath. Sgt. Williams, who said that he left Barnett and Mrs. Heath out of his car in front of the People's Hotel at two a. m., May 9, also took the polygraph test Wednesday afternoon. The findings in his examination by the polygraph expert indicated that he, too, was telling the truth, Sgt. Petermann reported.

No Inquest

Barnett appeared in justice court this morning to plead guilty to the charge of driving with improper plates. Justice of the Peace Rangette suspended the fine and assessed court costs.

Safety Director Leonard said that there would be no inquest in the Heath case, a decision concurred in by Prosecuting Attorney McGonagle and Coroner O. S. Hult. The coroner's examination revealed that Mrs. Heath died of drowning.

House Overrides Truman Veto Of Real Estate Bill

WASHINGTON—(P)—The House voted by a wide margin today to override President Truman's veto of a defense real estate bill.

On a roll-call vote of 312 to 68, it approved the bill despite the president's objections and sent it to the Senate. If the Senate overrides, the bill becomes law.

The House vote was 58 more than the two-thirds necessary.

The legislation would require the defense establishments and the Civil Defense Administration, with some exceptions to obtain approval from the House and Senate armed services committees before making any major real estate deals.

In his veto Mr. Truman rapped Congress for trying to administer as well as make the laws. He said the bill would cause undue additional administrative burdens and might retard the defense program.

Peninsula Airports Voted Appropriations

LANSING—(P)—Twelve local airports would be benefited by an airport matching appropriation bill passed by the senate and sent to the house.

The senate appropriations committee cut the original bill from $565,000 to $710,965, arguing that $50,000 of this year's $639,000 appropriation was not spent.

The bill includes: Ford airport at Iron Mountain, $15,000; Gogebic county airport, $10,000; K. I. Sawyer airport at Marquette, $15,000; Menominee county airport, $12,500.

for janitors," he said, "and yet under this system it would not contribute a penny to the retirement of the men who are the bulwark of democracy."

Some of the members opposing the bill had tin cups on their desks containing a few pennies which they rattled at times during the debate. This was an allusion to Cramton's earlier attacks on the financing plan as forcing judges to "pass a tin cup" among litigants to pay for their pensions.

The house refused to approve a senate plan to rip apart the "lien law." The plan had been attached to another measure and the disagreement sent the question to a conference committee.

The senate approved the removal of the homestead from property the state could attach for the recovery of old age assistance after the recipient dies.

The house passed bills to permit public employees not covered by pension plans to come under the social security system and to provide permanent special plates for historical motor vehicles over 20 years old.

Sailor Confesses Drowning Boy Who Spied On Petting

DETROIT—(P)—An 18-year-old sailor confessed today, authorities said, to the 1947 drowning of an eight-year-old boy who threatened to tell about petting scenes between the sailor and the victim's sister.

Assistant Prosecutor Francis Trexler said Seaman Richard A. Sackett, of suburban Plymouth township, confessed he held Harold Frame's head under water in a fountain catchbasin three times in an effort to scare him into silence.

Sackett was returned here from the Lakehurst, N. J., naval air station yesterday. Originally Harold's death was held accidental, but a coroner's jury ruled last April 30 that he came to his death by "foul play."

The sailor first mentioned a connection with the Frame boy's death when arrested for car theft in New Jersey last January. Then, Trexler said authorities learned that Sackett had boasted to six friends of the killing.

Sheriff's Detective John Trout said a lie detector test given Sackett in New Jersey "indicated he had guilty knowledge" of the drowning. The sailor subsequently said the death had "tortured his conscience."

At the time of the slaying, Sackett was only 14.

Prosecutor Trexler said Sackett told him that the day after Harold had caught the sailor and Harold's 15-year-old sister petting in a park, the younger lad taunted him with threats to tell his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Frame.

Harold refused not to tattle after Sackett had twice held his head under water in the 10-inch catchbasin, Trexler said the sailor told him, and he was ducked a third time.

isions were reported retreating before the Red onslaught.

Every field dispatch referring to the breakthrough was heavily censored. (P) Correspondent William C. Barnard on the East-Central front reported the break gravely threatened other Republican units.

South Koreans to the west gave ground under heavy pressure.

Still farther southwest, in the neighborhood of Chunchon, Americans generally held their positions. In one instance U. S. troops counter-attacked.

American lines were dented in spots.

The Communist version of the battle was broadcast by Pyongyang radio in North Korea. It said Reds "are successfully punishing savage American and British aggressors all along the front."

The attack began on the east coast and exploded westward. It was like a string of firecrackers exploding as the flame crept along the cord, said (P) Correspondent Nate Polowetzky.

Field dispatches Thursday said the fighting had spread nearly to Kapyong. The highway town is in the center of the peninsula 65 miles from the east coast and 32 miles northeast of Seoul. Reds stepped up their patrol activity north of Seoul on the western front.

Death Valley is the lowest land surface in the western hemisphere.

Steel Supplies For Cars To Be Cut One-Third

WASHINGTON—(P)—The government announced today that steel supplies for autos and other consumer "hard goods" will be cut about one-third below pre-Korean levels on July 1.

This will mean reductions ranging from ten to 15 per cent below present civilian levels.

Copper and aluminum will be somewhat tighter than steel, Edwin T. Gibson, acting defense production administrator said.

Gibson told a news conference that about 2,000,000 tons of steel will be available for refrigerators, passenger cars, washing machines and other household appliances in the July-August-September quarter, as against 3,000,000 tons on the average before the outbreak of fighting.

The announcement was made shortly after the government ordered steel mills to set aside sharply increased percentages of their output for July delivery on military priorities.

GI Education Is Extended

Veterans In Service May Resume Study

World War II veterans now in active military service, attending school under the GI Bill during their spare time, will be able to resume their courses after the July 25, 1951 training cut-off date, if they are forced to interrupt their studies because of military duties or transfers, Veterans Administration said today.

They will be allowed to continue training within a reasonable period after their release from active duty—even though they do not get out until after the cut-off date.

In fact, VA added, when they do re-enter GI Bill training, they may step up the part-time training taken while in uniform to full-time courses.

However, VA said, a veteran taking a GI Bill correspondence course while in service or otherwise may not, after the cut-off date, switch to classroom training, regardless of whether it's in the same or any other field of study.

Similar post-deadline procedures apply to veterans who started GI Bill studies as civilians, then interrupted to return to military or naval service, VA stated. They also may resume training within a reasonable period following their release from service—should they return to civilian life after July 25, 1951 and before July 25, 1956, the wind-up of the program.

Medical Society Says State Of Michigan Needs 1,574 Doctors

LANSING — (AP) — Michigan is suffering from a shortage of more than 1,500 doctors, a report to Governor Williams said.

The Michigan State Medical Society and the deans of the University of Michigan and Wayne university medical schools made the survey of medical facilities in the state at the request of the governor.

Michigan is below the national average of the number of doctors needed per population, the report said. Ideally, the survey said, the state should have 1,574 more doctors.

The committee recommended that steps be taken to increase the number of doctors, increase their productivity and lower the demand for medical service.

Completion of the medical science building at Wayne university was recommended as one method of producing more doctors for the state. It was also suggested that doctors' house visits be restricted to cases of actual need.

Federated Clubs Will Use CARE To War On Communism

By MARTHA COLE
HOUSTON, Tex.—The 2,000 delegates to the national convention of the Federation of Women's Clubs begin today a drive to combat world communism.

Their program is a national campaign for CARE packages to Korea.

"The whole purpose of extending women's club work to foreign nations is to create a better understanding in order to combat communism," said Mrs. John L. Whitehurst of Baltimore, Md.

"It's the Russian policy to belittle America and help the people in need," said Mrs. Whitehurst, who is chairman for the Council of International clubs of the Federation.

"Well, we are going to do what we can to answer that in our own way," she said.

Sparkling the campaign are 23 women from 11 foreign nations who are international delegates to the six-day convention that opened here Monday.

Convention Speakers
Coming in today is the Foreign Minister of Korea, Y. T. Pyun, who will tell the women what they can do to help his country.

Rep. Walter M. Judd of Minnesota, a former medical missionary in China, will talk to the convention tonight on the Far East situation.

Don J. Rafael Oreamundo, Ambassador from Costa Rica, will speak on the western hemisphere and inter-American cooperation.

The superintendent of schools from Topeka, Kas., told the women last night that they must keep the spirit of competition in the schools.

"Life is not just one big continuous festival where no one excels and no one loses," Superintendent Kenneth McFarland said. "Therefore the schools which prepare for life should not operate under the delusion that no one can achieve more than anyone else."

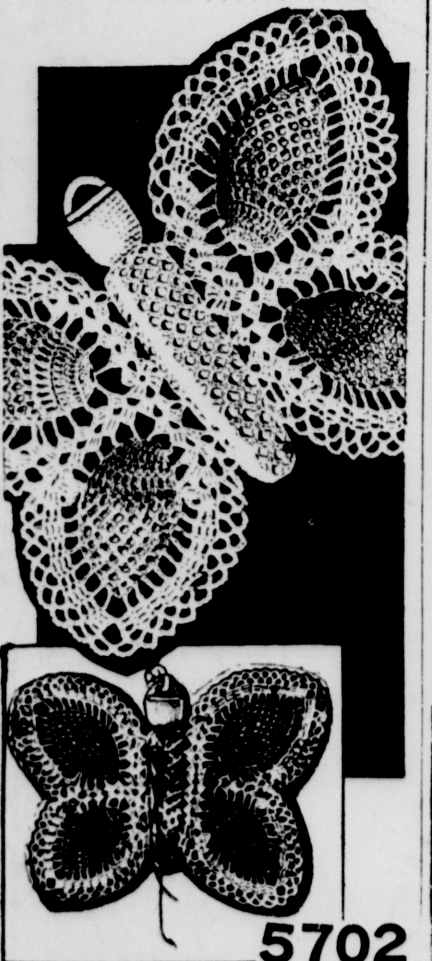

"At the adult level this theory is communism, but somehow we are making ourselves believe at the childhood level it is democracy."

President's Night
Last night was President's night at the convention, with the president of each state federation introduced to the convention.

The general federation's extension awards were given to California for the largest number of new clubs, to Maine for the greatest increase in membership and to the District of Columbia for the greatest proportional increase.

The press book contest award was divided between the Junior Woman's Club of Jacksonville Beach, Fla., and the Monday Study Club of New London, Mo.

Controversy Obscures Real Facts Of Korea

By MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON — In the haystack of words piling up in the Senate inquiry into the dismissal of General MacArthur it is bound to be increasingly difficult to find the needle of truth. Partly this is because some senators are using the investigation as a fishing expedition to pull out of the past at some point or other evidence for foreign policy blunders.

Heaven knows there have been blunders and big ones. It would be surprising if there had not been in a time so full of trouble, conflict and confusion.

But the objective of the present investigation—if it has an objective other than the purely political—is not to fish in the troubled waters of the past. It is to nail down the facts about the conduct of the war in Korea.

Conflicting Views

Shortly there will be introduced into the hearings a series of exchanges between MacArthur's headquarters in Tokyo and the Pentagon in Washington that should help to clear up one of the main points of contention. That is MacArthur's charge that he had no real directive on policy to guide him after the Chinese Communists intervened last November. In his Chicago speech he referred to "a policy vacuum heretofore unknown to war."

The sequence of telegrams shows something quite different. The exchange began with a long telegram from MacArthur early in January filled with almost unrelieved gloom. MacArthur was virtually saying that it would be necessary to pull out of Korea.

The joint chiefs of staff were taken aback by this message, particularly since General Matthew Ridgway, in command in the field in Korea, reported that he believed the situation was under control. But MacArthur was, after all, the supreme authority on the spot and so a day later they wired him authorization to get out if in the last analysis he felt it was necessary.

Overruled By Bradley

MacArthur then came back with a message asking whether this meant he had to get out. He also asked for a directive on policy.

The latter request precipitated a lot of discussion in Washington. Some policy makers were for including in the reply a long analysis of America's political approach to Korea and Asia. They were overruled by General Omar Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff.

Under Bradley's supervision a clear and cogent directive covering the main points of military policy in Asia was sent to MacArthur. This stressed the need to blunt and perhaps eventually destroy the Chinese Communist armies in Korea, to encourage resistance to Communism everywhere in Asia, both open and underground, to hold the line while American military strength was building here at home.

Truman Sent Message

In addition to this military directive, President Truman a day later sent directly to MacArthur the long message which has already been put into the record of the hearings. This wire of January 13 outlined the over-all political-diplomatic goals in the Far East.

But the JCS had in the meantime taken still another step. The first MacArthur telegram had so disturbed the joint chiefs that they agreed Lieutenant General J. Lawton Collins, chief of staff of the Army, should go to Korea to make a survey in the field of what actually was happening.

Collins arrived in Korea on January 15. He visited forward areas and talked at length with Ridgway. Collins was told by Ridgway that the line was stabilized and that there was no military reason to consider evacuation.

On January 17 Collins flew to Tokyo where he spent several hours with General MacArthur in the Dai Ichi building. During that talk he read to MacArthur the "study"—that is how MacArthur referred to it at one point—in which the JCS had considered the need to blockade the China coast and to make use of Chiang Kai-Shek's troops. It is on the basis of this "study" that MacArthur has declared the joint chiefs agreed with his policy.

After he had read the memorandum, Collins noted that it was largely now academic, since the proposals had been conditional on the need to evacuate the Korean peninsula. This is the vital point—that it was a study suggesting what might have to be done in the event that American prestige and power in the Orient suffered the severe blow of being forced to give up the fight in Korea.

But that did not happen. Thanks in large part to Ridgway, the forces in Korea were rallied and reassembled. From the low point in December a steady improvement was noted.

Here is a sequence of events that is all important. It must not be obscured by the dust of controversy swirling around an investigation that promises to be interminably drawn out.

Oyster beds now can be located through the use of depth-recording equipment. The portable instrument sends out sound waves that are echoed back through the water from the bottom and recorded. By checking the differences in the intensities of the recordings, the kind of bottom surface is determined.

Beef Control Will Not Last

Meat Industry Already Boiling

By ROBERT C. RUARK

NEW YORK—The curb on meat prices, which technically went into effect Monday, seems to be the full and final flower on Washington jabberwocky, in which arms are waved, double-talk is spoken, and nothing very effective happens.

It is nearly impossible for the mind of man to grasp the fruits of this new stroke of brilliance. I make it out roughly as follows, with considerable liability for error.

Wholesale prices got frozen last week. Retail prices are frozen as of Monday. Some retailers had their prices congealed at higher rates than others. At the moment, the consumer gets no help from the freeze. He just keeps on paying his usual pound of platinum for his pound of meat. Now, then, children, a rollback is due on Aug. 1, which might save us a nickel a pound or so, and another is slated for Oct. 1.

Pressure on Congress
If Congress doesn't extend its defense production act beyond June 30, leaving the Office of Price Stabilization—that's a joke, son—free to clamp down on meat, madame housewife will never see a rollback. And there is plenty pressure on Congress to junk meat control.

Cattlegrowers are already in open rebellion. They claim they pay about 48 cents a pound to deliver a marketable steer on the hoof, and the rollback will force them to produce beef at a costlier figure than they receive per pound under the ceiling.

Black Market Again
I am told that the seasoned spivs of the meat black market are already squeezing into the picture, that many legitimate packers are unable to accommodate a normal demand because beef already is being forced into illegal channels. There is no easier commodity to pervert, as you will remember from the all-out control days of the recent war. The few restaurants which were able to offer decent steaks were playing cute little games with their ration allotments.

And getting the stuff from the stores, for home consumption, dwelt largely in the hollow-laugh category.

Beef People Sore

The beef people are as sore as a boil. In face of what they believe is unfairness by the government, and faced with financial loss if they stay honest, they are not apt to co-operate for the public good. In the hit-or-miss control system of Mr. Truman's tame witch-doctors, the government now attempts to control beef, a single commodity, without controlling the commodity cost, which goes into the production of beef.

A nine-year-old moron could tell you by now that it is impossible to control a part of anything. You can't keep the meat industry honest, from a consumer standpoint, if you don't control the prices of raw material, such as feed, and the labor which grows the controlled-price steer. People just ain't that noble.

FAT SURRENDERS, LOST 43 LBS., USES RENNEL

"When I first started using Rennel Concentrate I wore a size 32 dress and it was tight. In a period of two months I lost enough weight to be able to wear a size 46 dress," writes Anna Grosswiler, 720 E. First St., Monroe, Mich. "I eat three meals a day but stopped eating in between and am losing more and more. I look and feel 100 per cent better already and thank you for a good product. My husband has lost 40 lbs. since he is using Rennel, and my daughter is getting back to her normal weight." It's simple. It's amazing. How quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your drugstore and ask for four ounces of liquid Rennel Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then take two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it. If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose pounds of bulky fat and help regain slender more youthful curves—if reducible excess fat doesn't seem to disappear almost like magic just return the empty bottle to the manufacturer for your money back. Note how quickly bloated disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active. Insist on genuine Rennel.

Committees Make Reports

Hospital Auxiliary Has Dinner Meeting

By MRS. RENOLD ANDERSON
That the auxiliary to Schoolcraft Memorial hospital has more than fulfilled its mission of service was evidenced by the fine reports of various committees presented at the spring dinner meeting on Monday night at the Manistique township hall. From sewing and the preparation of surgical dressings, to visiting and providing favors and reading material for patients, all committees reported a fine record of service in supplementing and adding little extras to the work of the county's fine new hospital.

Committee chairmen reporting on their work included: Mrs. Edwin Crook, sewing and mending; Mrs. W. J. Bruley, surgical dressings; Mrs. A. W. Heitman, scruffs; Mrs. Arthur Thorpe, visiting; Mrs. Ken Van Eyck, finance; and Mrs. Russell Watson for Mrs. J. J. Herbert on library work.

Cart Donated
Purchase of four subscriptions to popular magazines was authorized for the library committee. A fine selection of books has been made available for patients, and this week a cart donated by the Lions club will be given to the hospital for circulating the books from room to room.

Specimens of the various favors made for all occasions and placed on the patients trays were displayed as center pieces at the dinner table. The favors, made by a committee of women from Gulliver, headed by Mrs. Harrison Beach, carried out the theme of Easter, Mother's Day, May Day, Thanksgiving, Christmas, Lincoln and Washington's birthdays.

An invitation from the Indian Lake Golf and Country club to hold a summer meeting at their new club house was accepted and Mrs. Van Eyck named chairman to make plans for the event.

Group Commended
Mrs. F. P. Stanness and Mrs. A. L. LaVigne were named members of an auditing committee to report at the October meeting. Election of officers will take place at that time with the following nominating committee presenting a slate of officers: Mrs. Edwin Crook, Mrs. Harrison Beach and Mrs. Harold Carlson.

TO OBSERVE ANNIVERSARY—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hancock, of Manistique, above, will celebrate their Golden Wedding anniversary Sunday, May 20, with open house in the afternoon at their home, 210 North Front street, and a family dinner in the evening at the Paul Bunyan Cook Camp. They were married May 20, 1901, at Germfask. (Photo by Linderorth)

A letter written by A. J. Cayia, chairman of the hospital board of trustees, commending the auxiliary for its splendid accomplishments and fine record of service, was read by Mrs. Leon Nicholson, president.

A discussion on the possibility of the auxiliary providing scholarships for student practical nurses was led by Mrs. Nicholson. The amount of the scholarships, to serve as a loan to high school girls interested in the practical nursing course at a Marquette hospital, would probably be $250. Further study of the plan was placed in the hands of a committee composed of Mrs. Clarence Peterson, Mrs. Carl Olson, Mrs. A. W. Heitman and Mrs. George Shaw.

Play Presented
Following the dinner a program was enjoyed including music and the presentation of a one-act play by students from the high school speech class of William Frederickson. Assembly singing was enjoyed and Miss Janet Dixon, of Gulliver, presented two numbers on her piano accordion.

"Winter Sunset," was the title of the play, directed by Miss Margo Viergever. Members of the cast were: Mrs. Elizabeth Andrews, played by Miss Viergever; Bill Andrews her son, Bill Rogers; Anita, his wife, Margaret Cowman, and Dr. Michaelson, Ted Curley.

The dinner was served by a committee from Manistique township under the direction of Mrs. Frank Arrowood. Assisting were Mrs. Kermit Wolfe, Mrs. Carl Olson, Mrs. Clarence Peterson, Mrs. John Stoor, Mrs. Mathilda McPhail, Mrs. William Morden, Mrs. William Drefs, Mrs. Donna Walker, and the Misses Avis Walker, Mary Ann and Donna Walters. Low bowls of wild flowers served as table decorations, and trays displaying the hospital favors were also used in the arrangement. Mrs. James Wieland was chairman of the after-dinner program.

Operations At Michigan Dimension Plant Under New Ownership Described

The story of the Michigan Dimension company, its history, its present plans and policies, and its future outlook, was told to members of the Manistique Lions club Tuesday evening by I. J. McLaughlin, plant manager.

The firm which about a year ago was facing liquidation is now one of the stable industrial plants of the community, with an optimistic future, McLaughlin said.

Since the company was acquired by the Dearborn company, of Chicago, last year its payroll has increased from an average of 105 persons to 140, obsolete plant equipment is being replaced, new sources of raw material developed, and new and expanded markets obtained, the speaker said.

New owners also have revised plant policies, instituted improved labor relations, and revised operation procedures for maximum efficiency, he pointed out.

Faced Liquidation

McLaughlin, who was advanced to the management of the plant following the resignation of R. L. Prine last fall, traced the history of the Dimension plant and said that the firm was definitely included in the liquidation program of the Bay de Noquet company, sole owners.

"Under such a condition it is quite understandable that no planning was done for the future, and only enough money expended for maintenance and repair to keep the plant and equipment going until the time of its final disposition," the speaker said.

One of the first major moves of the Bay de Noquet company in its program of liquidation, he said, was to sell the Michigan Dimension company to an auctioneer—in fact, to the same auctioneering firm which liquidated the assets of the Manistique Tool and Manufacturing company.

The firm was saved from actually going on the auction block by one of its customers, and this came about through a labor relations counsel who happened to serve both customers, McLaughlin said. "He knew one was to be sold and the other was looking for a plant to purchase, and a deal was arranged with the auctioneer," he stated.

Policy Changes

"Very shortly after the new owners took over, the policy of operation of the Michigan Dimension company underwent a radical change," the speaker said. "The company became one with a future and not just a past."

Continuing, the plant manager said that the Dearborn company said that the Dearborn company has a plant at Oshkosh, Wis., where it manufactures furniture, and the Munising Woods Products company plants at Munising and Marquette. The Munising plant makes woodenware and the Marquette industry manufactures a large assortment of various wood products.

The Michigan Dimension plant was acquired for two purposes, he said,—one to supplement the production of the other three plants and one—the main one—to continue operations as a dimension company.

Although losing the Bay de Noquet company as a source of raw material, the local plant has access to materials from sawmills at Munising and Marquette and all-so has developed new mill sources in Canada. Portable mills in Schoolcraft, Delta, Alger, Luce and Mackinac counties are still a substantial source of supplies, he said.

Plant Improved

"The plant proper here in Manistique is being improved by gradually replacing worn-out and obsolete machines by new, modern equipment," McLaughlin said. "To date three major units have undergone such replacement. In addition to this an entire new department has been installed, the plastic panel department."

The speaker also said that plant buildings are undergoing gradual repair. The program for the coming summer includes construction of concrete roofs over four of the firm's seven dry kilns.

Improved distribution of the company's products has been achieved by centralizing sales activities in Chicago where an entire department now devotes its time to the procurement of orders, he said.

Discussing improved labor relations, McLaughlin said that one of the first moves by the new owners was to give all employees a company-paid life, sickness, and accident insurance policy. This insurance is substantial and worthwhile, he said, ranging from $1,375 to $2,500 on life and $14 to $20 per week on sickness or accident last time.

Job Evaluation

The next move, he pointed out, was the employment of two labor experts to install a job evaluation schedule in the plant.

"Through it each job is rated on the basis of 13 factors—experience, education, physical exertion, working position, surrounding conditions, responsibility for materials, responsibility for machines or tools, responsibility for danger to others, exposure to hazards, physical skill, mental skill, concentration, and accuracy," the speaker said.

"Every job is judged for each of all these factors by a committee, which, in our case, was made up of five men from the union, three men from the company, and the two labor experts."

"When completed and installed, this evaluation schedule had the effect of putting all jobs in their proper place on the rate schedule," he continued.

Wages Raised

The next move by the firm was the renegotiation, with union consent, of the labor contract whereby a wage increase of eight cents an hour was instituted and a cost-of-living escalator clause provided, he continued.

Another worthwhile and beneficial move, he pointed out, was the installation of two 10-minute rest periods with pay during each shift.

The firm's payroll for the first four months of 1951 totaled over $150,000, and logs and lumber purchased during the same period amounted to $250,000, McLaughlin said.

The speaker listed the various products manufactured by the company, including a variety of furniture parts, parts for household equipment and utensils, parts for agricultural implements and equipment, and an assortment of miscellaneous items.

He listed fraternity paddles as one of the miscellaneous items which constitute an important production article. He also said that articles made from rippings, short ends and other offal, such as brush backs, brush handles and fly swatter handles, constitute a regular source of income.

Describes Plastics

One manufacturer buys brush backs at the rate of 50,000 a month, and fly swatter handles are ordered a half million at a time, he said.

Products of the firm are sold through the nation, including the far west and the Atlantic seaboard, he stated.

The speaker concluded his remarks by briefly describing the operation of the new plastic panels department. He said: "The plastic tops we make are those you see on those tubular chrome dinette tables, of which so many are used these days."

"The tops are made up of a plastic face, a core of wood, masonite or plastic, depending on price class, and a plastic back."

"The plastic faces and backs are made up of many layers of chemically impregnated paper which are fused together in one homogeneous sheet under heat and pressure. We do this here at Manistique."

"Each of the layers in the face is for a definite purpose and they are impregnated with a chemical which serves that purpose."

"The face, backs and cores are glued together in the same manner as plywood."

Betty wore a beige colored suit with beige and green accessories, roses, yellow carnations and white and a mixed corsage of yellow sweet peas. A single strand of pearls, a gift of the groom, was her only jewelry.

Miss Mary Jane Jones, bridesmaid, wore a green suit with pink accessories and her corsage was of pink roses and lavender sweet peas.

Robert Leny was best man. For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Freeland chose a gray dress with white accessories. Mrs. Smith wore a navy print dress with matching accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of red roses and sweet peas.

A reception was held at 6:00 o'clock at the home of the bride's mother for 40 guests.

Mobile Bookcase For Hospitals Is Finished By Club

A mobile bookcase, constructed locally, under the direction of the Manistique Lions club, has been completed and will be donated to the Schoolcraft Memorial hospital in a day or so, it was reported at the regular Lions meeting Tuesday night by Earl Cox, committee chairman.

A brass plate on the portable bookcase carries the club name and date of manufacture. The plate and engraving were donated by P. P. Stanness.

The mobile case, equipped with rubber-tired wheels, will be used in connection with a library service being provided by the hospital auxiliary.

It was announced at the meeting that club members would be guests of the Mead Corporation, Manistique division, on Tuesday, May 22, with lunch in the mill at 12 o'clock and a tour of the plant afterwards.

Further discussion of the Upper Peninsula Lions convention, to be held June 10, 11 and 12 at the King's Gateway hotel, near Watersmeet, also took place.

Estimated workers employed in processing and delivering U. S. dairy products total 250,000.

of different patterns—mahogany, walnut, prima vera, and three colors in pearl—red, yellow and grey. The field, however, is unlimited because the face sheet is a photographic reproduction, and any wood can be simulated.

"At present we are making tops only for the Dearborn plant at Oshkosh, but when the necessary chemicals and papers become more plentiful, we are going to sell to others. In time we expect our plastic top business to constitute about 50 percent of our total volume."

We know it adds nothing to the art on the page. But we thought we'd slip our picture in here for a while. So if you see snoopers around town or out to the games you'll now we're not a "tourist". In case you wonder about that hairline, we think the photographer dressed it up a little.

Axel Anderson, lanky Northern Michigan College freshman from Escanaba, was pictured in last Saturday's Marquette Mining Journal as he soared over the bar at the 10-foot, five-inch mark to win first place in the pole vault event of the dual track and field meet between Northern and Soo Tech. Northern swamped Soo by more than a 4 to 1 margin. It was the first tournament on Northern's new athletic field.

Another Upper Peninsula youth doing well in athletics is Bob Schultz, Kingsford boy who signed a New York Giant minor league contract last summer. Schultz is "doing fine" with the Oshkosh Giants in the Wisconsin State league, according to Scout Ray Lucas. Schultz plays left field and bats in the No. 3 slot for Oshkosh. Up until a few days ago he was hitting at a .350 clip.

Joe "Flash" Gordon, erstwhile Yankee and Cleveland phenom, is working his first season as skipper of Sacramento's Pacific Coast League Solons. He joins a crew of former baseball greats on the coast, including Rogers Hornsby at Seattle, Mel Ott at Oakland, Stan Hack at Los Angeles and Lefty O'Doul at San Francisco.

Don Boyce toured the Escanaba Golf course in a neat 41 strokes last Tuesday evening. He hit par on two, three, four and five but blossomed to a seven on No. 6 hole. In the same foursome John Fawcett came in with par fours on the tough eight and nine holes. No. 9 is a rugged 430-foot uphill affair. Archie Freeman, Carl Benzinger, Paul Wohlen and Jim Hall were in a rut on the 128-yard No. 3 hole. Playing together Tuesday evening, all four carded a par three for the hole.

Softball League To Open Sunday

Softball will take over the sports scene here Sunday night when a double-header officially opens the sport for the 1951 season.

The pair of exhibition games Sunday will pit White Birch against Ev's in a 7 o'clock preliminary and Harnischfeger against Paper Mill in the main go at 8:45.

A program is planned for the night and will be presented between games. George Grenholm, of the softball board of directors, will speak. Mayor Peter Logan will also address the players and spectators and Denis McGinn, father of local softball, will be called on.

National League
The softball association met Wednesday evening and made plans to get the American league under way Monday. The National league has been slow in forming this season and will not start until the following Monday. Teams in the circuit are Liberty Loan, A's Tavern, St. Ann's and St. Thomas. Officials are looking for an additional two teams.

The Old Timers league will open a week of practice games May 28 and get started officially June 4. In that league there are seven teams and room for one more.

In the fold are Birds Eye, St. Thomas, St. Joe Boosters, Flat Rock, Daily Press, Eagles and Clairmont Transfer.

Players must be 30 years old, with pitchers and catchers at least 35. The league will play a 14-game schedule. Entry fee was set at $15.

Gus Zernial On Record Spree Of Four-Baggers

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
Jimmy Dykes has lit a fire under big Gus Zernial. The slumbering giant is on a record-tying home run rampage.

With six homers in three consecutive games, old "Ozark Ike" goes into the little red book in such exclusive company as Tony Lazzeri and Ralph Kiner. And he hasn't stopped yet.

He hit 29 homers last season but averaged only 280. His fielding wasn't too much better. When aggressive Paul Richards took over as manager, Zernial was ticketed to go sooner or later.

"He'll Hit"
"He'll hit for me," said Dykes last winter when he only hoped to trade for Zernial. The deal fell through in December. But a new three-way swap involving the A's, White Sox and Indians brought bench-riding Gus to Philadelphia April 30.

At Chicago, Zernial was hitting 105 and not playing. He had two hits opening day and none since. No home runs. With the A's he's hitting at a .366 clip to bring his season mark around .283.

The home run spurt started Sunday when the A's dumped the Yankees twice. Gus connected twice in the second game. He hit two more Tuesday night against St. Louis. Then came another pair last night off the Browns. So he has six for the season, all in the last three games. If he hits another pair tonight against St. Louis he'll break an American league record.

Lose Anyway
No. 5 came off Cliff Fannin in the second inning and No. 6 off Duane Pillette in the fifth. Still the A's lost the ball game, 10-9 and tumbled into the American league cellar.

Vic Raschi set a new season high with 10 strikeouts in the New York Yankees' 11-3 romp over Cleveland. It was the Yanks' ninth straight at the stadium where they have yet to lose.

The surprising Chicago White Sox knocked off the Boston Red Sox at Fenway park for the second day in a row, 9-5. Joe Dobson went all the way against his old mates. Walt Dropo hit homers in the second and third to drive in four Boston runs.

National Record?
Historians were searching the records to see if the National league ever was only three games from top to bottom after a month of play. Only three games separate the last-place Phillies from the league leading Brooklyn Dodgers.

The Chicago Cubs batted Brooklyn pitchers for 13 hits in a 14-4 slaughter. Dee Fondy and Ransom Jackson each rapped two homers and Frankie Baumholtz collected four hits. Paul Minner coasted to his second victory.

Second place Boston also was knocked off by Cincinnati, 4-3, with the Reds scoring three of Johnny Sain's in the eighth. It was Sain's fifth loss. He's won only one. Homers by Bob Elliott and

Trout Tosses Four-Hitter To Whip Senators By 7-1

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Dizzy Trout of the Detroit Tigers just loves that night life—on the baseball diamond.

The Tiger veteran pitched his second straight four-hitter under the lights last night as the Tigers beat Washington's Senators 7-1 to maintain their tie for second place in the American league.

What's more, Diz hit two singles and batted in a pair of Detroit runs to complete a very pleasant evening at the expense of Al Sima and the slipping Senators, who now have lost four in a row.

Big Inning
Detroit kept its night record perfect largely because of a big fourth inning as Sima lost the plate and the Tigers made three hits. It added up to five runs.

Don Kolloway and George Kell opened with singles. Sima loaded the bases by walking Vic Wertz and forced in a run with a pass to Hoot Evers. He then struck out Steve Souchock, but presented the Tigers with a couple more runs with walks to Joe Gingsberg and Johnny Lipon.

Then Trout blasted a single in to right that drove in two more scores and sent Sima to the showers. Julio Moreno finished.

In the first, leadoff batter Jerry Priddy tripled and came home on Kolloway's grounder. In the fifth Kell doubled and Gingsberg singled for the last Tiger run.

Three Hits In Fourth
Trout had complete mastery in every inning but the fourth. Then the Senators bunched three of their four hits for a single run. Eddie Yost, Gil Coan and Sam Mele did the hitting.

Dizzy didn't allow a man on base for the first three innings. He issued only one walk. The victory evened Trout's season record at 2-2.

Sima and Moreno held Vic Wertz hitless, ending his streak of successive games at 11. But Kell got two of the eight Tiger hits to run his own string to ten games.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Final plans were announced today for next week's important Big Ten meeting which will decide whether the conference will continue to send football teams to the Rose bowl.

The three-day spring meeting will be held in suburban Evanston May 23-26.

The Rose bowl decision will be made at joint meetings of the faculty representatives and athletic directors May 24 and 25. Conference Commissioner Kenneth L. Wilson said "I expect the matter to be determined sometime May 24."

Forest fires consume 14 per cent of wood growth in Southern forests each year, exceeding the total amount cut for pulpwood.

Wood Game Is Easier Than Irons, Golf Expert Claims
Fifteenth of a series by members of the P. G. A.

By SAM SNEAD
Former British Open, PGA and Masters champion

Correct mental attitude on wood shots is necessary to a successful game.

This applies especially to woods used on the fairways, as most golfers have reconciled themselves to woods off the tee.

Actually, woods are easier to use than irons. For one thing, they generally are used off the tee or from good lies in the fairway.

A good wood has a wide, flat sole designed to right the club to some extent if it is swung too deeply into the turf. Hence, with the right mental disposition, your wood game should be up to, if not excel, your iron game.

The ball should be left of center. I like to play my drives off my left heel, with each of my other woods up to No. four moved slightly toward center. I recommend a slightly closed stance, right foot back an inch.

Generally, when a golfer picks up a wood he has visions of hitting the ball a country mile. He tries by brute force in his swing. He forgets that each club is designed for distance, so he won't have to break his back on a 250-yard drive.

Most professionals agree you get more distance out of woods when you are relaxed.

Always relax and swing easily. Balance throughout the entire swing is an important feature. Develop the swing gradually. Don't rush it. Practice for timing, smoothness and rhythm, which in turn will provide accuracy and, finally, distance.

Remember that your hands work as a team. When you start the swing, bring the club back with both hands—never with either hand alone. Keep in mind that you are swinging the club. Don't let it or you may lose some of your precious balance.

NEXT: Don't hurry your down-swing, advises Sam Snead.

No-Hitter Thrown By Bartoszek

BARK RIVER—Francis Bartoszek carved an eight-inning no-hitter yesterday afternoon as Coach George LeBrasseur's Bark River team tagged Rapid River with a 2-1 loss.

It was a pitchers' duel all the way with Pederson of Rapid River scattering five singles and fanning 11. Bartoszek whiffed 15.

The lone Rapid River run was scored on an error in the second inning. Rapid River was unable to get a ball out of the infield.

Jack LaVesque scored both Bark River runs. He holds down right field.

Coach LeBrasseur announced today he will take a 20-man team to the regional track meet at Marquette Saturday. Star of the Bark River track team, in action this season for the first time in some years, is lanky Joe Lavigne, a sophomore. He jumped 21 feet in a practice broad jump this week.

Grand Marais Beats Seney In 1st Game

GRAND MARAIS—Grand Marais opened the baseball season Sunday with a 7-4 victory at Seney.

The game marked the opening of the Upper Peninsula Central league schedule. Battery for Grand Marais was Lyle McDonald and Douglas Kane. For Seney, Loosely, Hyvonen and Lytle.

Harry Bailey is manager of the Grand Marais team and also manager of the All Star West team in the U. P. Central league. Joseph Dreest is secretary-treasurer of the club.

HARMON-IZING — Claude Harmon demonstrates the proper stance for wood shots, slightly closed with ball off the left foot, hands working as a team, head down. (NEA).

NEXT: Don't hurry your down-swing, advises Sam Snead.

Little League Is Set For Action

Kiwanis Club New Sponsor Of Team

The Kiwanis club this week became the fifth service club to join the Little League baseball movement in this city.

Kiwanis replaces the Delta Hardware entry, it was announced today by Alvin Ness, league president. Other team sponsors include the Rotary, Lions and St. Joe Boosters.

The Escanaba Junior Chamber of Commerce serves on the league's managing personnel and is primarily interested in the safety features and league activities.

In stepping down, a spokesman for the Delta Hardware stated that company officials felt they could do a better job for the Little League by aiding and helping to promote the league as a whole rather than sponsoring one team.

Upwards of 100 candidates were on hand for the first practice session for positions on Little League teams, and managers will continue to search the sand lots for more talent.

Player Choosing
To assure a balanced league an elaborate system of choosing players has been worked out by National headquarters. At least 12 days before the first scheduled game each manager prepares a list of candidates in the order in which he desires to have them brought up "auction."

Teams consist of 12 uniformed players and six reserves. The 12 uniformed players must include at least three boys 10 and under, four aged 11 and not more than five 12-year olds.

At the beginning of the initial season managers shall be allowed 36,000 credits for the purchase of players. The highest bidder will get title to the player and credits will be charged against his total on hand.

Candidates will try out again Saturday at Royce Park at 2 o'clock. All players must be registered with league officials to be eligible for league participation.

St. Joe Plays Home Finale With Powers Sunday At 2

Coach Tom St. Germain's St. Joseph baseball team tuned up for its final home appearance against Powers, Sunday afternoon, by shutting out Cooks here yesterday 8-0.

Freshman Don Legault flipped a one-hitter at the visitors. The lone Cooks safety was a blooper into the left infield by lefthand batter Murray. The hit came in the second inning but Murray was forced out at second by the next batter.

Legault fanned six batsmen as St. Joe won its sixth game against two losses this season.

St. Joe collected nine hits, including doubles by Don Paulin, Jim Ottensman and Gravelle. Ottensman hit two for two and

Paulin two for three. Boddy to Pitch
Coach St. Germain said Fred Boddy would work against Powers in the home finale. Boddy has won three and lost none. The game will get under way at 2 o'clock.

Five St. Joe batters are clipping the ball at .320 or better for the season. Bob Sandenburgh is hitting .320, Don Paulin .391, John Martinac .384, Pete Kutches .333 and Jim Ottensman .320.

In a previous meeting St. Joe topped Powers 10-8 in a nine-inning battle.

The speedy St. Joe team has been outstanding in base running this season. The club has a record of 4 stolen bases to date.

Fireman Joe Page Shipped To Minors

By JACK HAND
NEW YORK—(AP)—Joe Page's return to the minors was the most dramatic move in the last day scramble by major league ball clubs to cut down to the 25-man limit.

Page, the fabulous "Fireman Joe" of the 1947 and 1949 New York Yankee champions, at least has a job and a salary in the $25,000 bracket. He goes to Kansas City to work out the kinks in his arm.

Jack Kramer, another big name of the past in the American league, was given his unconditional release by the New York Giants. The 33-year-old righthander is free to make his own connection.

Ceiling Prices On Pulpwood

Controls Placed In New England

WASHINGTON—The government put dollars and cents price ceilings on pulpwood cut in New England and part of New York State. Unaffected will be wood cut from land owned by pulp mills.

The ceilings will apply to expected production of about 1,500,000 cords of wood in the two areas in 1951.

The pulpwoods covered by the order are used generally to make paper, rayon, cellophane, plastics, and even explosives.

The Office of Price Stabilization set the new price ceilings in Ceiling Price Regulation No. 38. They are based on a price of $13.50 a cord (128 cubic feet) for rough spruce and fir at roadside.

To Stabilize Market
O. P. S. said the action was needed to stabilize prices at levels which will assure equitable distribution, adequate supply for pulp mills, and a reasonable return to sellers. The price fixers said their General Ceiling Price Regulation had frozen prices at various levels which threatened to reduce supplies and dislocate the traditional pattern of distribution.

The new price ceilings are lower than the ceilings of some individual pulpwood sellers under the general price freeze, O. P. S. said. But, the price agency added, they are higher than pulpwood price in June, 1950.

For instance, rough spruce and fir pulpwood cut in Maine and delivered to a mill by truck in June sold for $14.50 to $15 a cord, O. P. S. said. Some sellers were getting as much as $18 a cord for this type of pulpwood in the December 19-January 25 base period of the general price freeze. The new ceiling price for this grade is $17.25 a cord when cut in Maine and delivered to a mill up to 20 miles from where it was cut.

The pulpwood order has different price schedules for three zones. The first zone takes in all Maine. The second includes all New Hampshire, certain counties in eastern Vermont, and Massachusetts east of the Connecticut River. Zone 3 covers the rest of Vermont and Massachusetts, that part of New York State coming under the order, and all the state of Connecticut.

Zone Schedules
The price schedules for each zone are broken down into the following sections: Spruce and fir, hemlock, poplar, northern hardwood, and pine. Different price ceilings are listed for each type of wood, depending on whether the pulpwood is rough or peeled and whether it is loaded on freight cars, piled beside a lake or stream piled by a public highway, or delivered to a mill within 20 miles of where the wood it cut.

Each zone also has a schedule

Miss Jannine Nelson and her guest, Mary Osborn, of Rockford, Ill., spent the weekend with Miss Nelson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Nelson.

of premiums to be added to price ceilings for delivery to mills more than 20 miles from where the wood is cut. For instance, the premium in Zone 1 for rough spruce and fir ranges from $1.25 a cord for deliveries from 20 to 40 miles distant to $5.25 a cord for more than 120 miles.

In addition, the exact dollars and cents amount of road taxes paid on a ton mile basis as well as toll fees can be added to price ceilings. Price ceilings can be increased $3 a cord on pulpwood salvaged from timber damaged by the 1950 New England hurricane. However, this latter premium can be paid only after approval of O. P. S.

A premium of $1 a cord can be paid on sales of at least 1,000 cords and not more than 7,500 cords annually to a single consumer or dealer. Dealers selling at least 7,500 cords annually can add $1.75 a cord to their price ceilings.
